JAPS TOLD TO 'WIN OR DIE' FOR EMPEROR

Tough Problems Solved By Conference

Note of Satisfaction Marks Closing of United Nations Meeting at San Francisco Where World Security Charter Worked Out During Two Months of Verbal Battling

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—(AP)—After a zig-zag course marked by a series of crises, the United Nations conference is winding up on a note of satisfaction with progress toward a world peace system. That is the consensus of delegates—many of whom exchanged sharp verbal blows during two months of wrangling debate. Now they go about shaking hands and saying a friendly "so long," in almost as many languages as the world can boast. No sooner was the solemn but theatrical opening ceremony concluded than the conference got into its first squabble. When one argument was cleared away, up popped another. Some compared it with the wrangling that marked the writing of the United States Constitution. Here are the highlights of the conference, the moments of tension that eased away when delegates sat down to sweat out solutions and mold compromises: 1—Russia shot off the first gun with a demand that the four inviting powers—Britain, the United States, China and Russia—share the conference presidency. Everyone finally agreed on four presidents in form, but one in fact. Secretary of State Stettinius kept all the important powers of a directive stemming from Emperor Hirohito. Members of the people's volunteer corps were told not to be taken alive or surrender in the face of an Allied invasion of the homeland—in other words, win, get killed or commit suicide. The order was contained in a new manual for homefront forces. As Japanese Home Minister Genki Abe made a detailed report to Hirohito on air raid damage in Tokyo, imperial headquarters belatedly admitted the loss of Okinawa. Radio Tokyo also admitted today that six months of systematic American air raids have demolished most cities on Formosa, guardian island of the East China coast, and sent their residents fleeing to the hills. War Getting Costlier Emperor Hirohito lost more soldiers last week than in any comparable period of the Pacific island war, American communiques disclosed today. Yanks killed 30,632 Japanese troops on Okinawa and in the Philippines. Another 7,705 surrendered. The fate of about 20,000 more was sealed by a paratrooper landing near the northern tip of the Philippines. Those elements of the 11th Airborne Division joined Guerrillas near Aparri and began to squeeze Japanese in Cagayan Valley against 37th Infantry and Guerrilla forces to the south. Tokyo talked of an attempted Australian amphibious landing at Balikpapan on southeastern Borneo, across the island from the valuable Seria oil fields captured by Ninth Division Aussies. Chinese forces moving up the east China coast were reported (Please Turn to Page Two)

JURORS ARE SELECTED IN PROSECUTOR'S TRIAL

SPRINGFIELD, June 25.—(AP)—A jury of 10 men and two women was selected and shown in today for the trial of Prosecutor Jerome A. Nevius, charged with bribery. The trial, now in its sixth day, was recessed and the jurors were to be taken to the Silver Dollar Club, 12 miles southwest of here, the site of a gambling establishment which closed a year ago.

East Coast Lashed By Hurricane

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 25.—(AP)—The center of the tropical hurricane sweeping up the Atlantic seaboard from the Caribbean passed 40 miles east of here today and swung northeastward parallel to Carolina's beach resort area. The center of the storm was reported moving near Georgetown, S. C., at 10:30 A. M. (EWT). The Weather Bureau said the hurricane would skirt along the coast as it moved northeastward or might pass inland on Cape Fear. Dangerous winds and high tides are expected to attend its advance to the Virginia capes and probably as far north as Atlantic City, N. J. Telephone communications with the Georgetown area were disrupted. No important damage was reported in the Charleston vicinity although the wind reached as high as 69 miles an hour in gusts. Rain-fall during the night totaled 5.58 inches. Residents of the nearby Folly Beach resort were evacuated to the city. The Weather Bureau said the core of the storm would pass over or slightly east of the Carolina Capes this afternoon and that strong winds from gale to full hurricane force would be felt from north of here to Hatteras.

30,000 TRUCKS RELEASED FOR AGRICULTURE NEEDS

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—The Army is releasing approximately 10,000 light and 20,000 medium trucks to meet urgent agricultural needs, the War Food Administration announced today. The trucks will be released by August 1 to the Commerce Department, which will direct their sale to dealers who agree to sell only to persons holding certificates from county agricultural committees.

FATE OF PRISONERS STILL IS MYSTERY

WITH THE SEVENTH DIVISION, Okinawa, June 25.—(AP)—The fate of American prisoners taken by the Japanese on Okinawa remained a mystery today after a search disclosed no trace of them or their bodies. Col. J. M. (Mickey) Finn, Astoria, Ore., commander of the 32nd regiment which took Hill 89 where one of the enemy general headquarters was located, said he has had scores of bodies exhumed but the search has brought no sign of the missing Americans.

SPAIN'S WAR ENTRY DISCUSSION SHOWN

Franco Said No Because Nation Was Starving

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, June 25.—(AP)—A German diplomatic report found by the Allies indicates Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain and Benito Mussolini discussed the question of Spain's entry into the war on the Axis side in 1941, but the Spanish leader insisted his country was too near starvation and militarily unprepared. The document also indicated the possibility of Spain's getting Gibraltar and French Morocco also was discussed. The information contained in the report has been turned over to the highest authorities. The report, dated Feb. 12, 1941, bore the signature of Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, then state secretary in the German foreign ministry and later German minister to the Vatican, and was addressed to Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

WORK ON JULY 4

KEEP ISLAND BASES GEN. ARNOLD SAYS

Extensive System Needed for Protection

HONOLULU, June 25.—(AP)—Retention of an extensive string of Pacific island bases in the interest of America's future security was advocated by Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the Army Air Forces, in a press conference here Sunday. "Our air power must be in a position to carry out attacks home to the heart of any aggressor who may threaten us," General Arnold emphasized. "Our own B-29s already can strike anywhere in the world if we keep the use of certain strategic bases."

He cited as "essential for our future security," the bloody won islands of the Marshalls, Palau, Velenoes, Bonins, and Ryukyus, as well as unrestricted use of Wake, Marcus, Canton, Palmyra and Christmas islands and American Samoa. Iwo Jima has saved 1,100 Superfortresses which have made emergency landings there, he said.

TWO WOMEN JAP SOLDIERS ARE KILLED ON OKINAWA

OKINAWA, June 25.—(AP)—Two Japanese women soldiers, completely uniformed and carrying grenades, were among 33 Nipponese killed by the Sixth Marine Division on the West Okinawa coast at the southern tip of the island. The women were with men apparently heading north on a sniping mission.

KIBITZER IS KILLED

AKRON, June 25.—(AP)—Hillard D. Slocum, 35, a Goodyear Aircraft Corp. worker, was shot fatally yesterday after he passed a kibitzing remark at a card game, detectives reported. A 42-year-old Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. employee was held by police on an open charge.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

The rains this spring have caused floods . . . but they have also made the flowers and lawns grow until right now everything is colorful.

Let me suggest that if you have a gallon of gasoline to spare, you drive through some of the alleys and peep over back fences at the flower and vegetable gardens around town. Really you will be surprised at the beauty behind many a home on your own or the neighboring streets.

Which brings forth an idea I've had for a number of years . . . why can't we have a Garden Week or a lawn contest of some kind about the middle of June each year? Then, entries could be made and publicity given so that we might know where to look for these beauty spots . . . and as long as we must stay at home more than usual we could enjoy each other's flowers and landscapes.

A sample of my idea may be seen at 326 Oakland Avenue where Mrs. Ed McRoan has transformed a back yard into a fairyland of flowers; stone paths through velvet grass, hand-made lawn ornaments, a glacial boulder wall, slat house for tender plants and a clever tool house complete the picture. Mrs. McRoan is one of those with a knack at growing things plus a lot of energy and ideas. Her garden is the result of several years of work and planning. When I was there the wrens and hummingbirds were busy enjoying the scenery too . . . and the visit gave me a big boost in morale.

VIENNESE HAPPY ABOUT OCCUPATION

Americans and British To Join Russians

VIENNA, June 23.—(AP)—Viennese greeted with outspoken joy today the announcement that the Americans and British were preparing to assume Vienna occupation along with the Russians who have been in control since April 10. The announcement has been awaited since a joint American-British party conferred with Lt. Gen. Blagodatov at Hietzing, just outside Vienna, three weeks ago. It came after the triumphal return of the old mayor, Karl Seitz, from a Thuringian hospital prison where Americans freed him. Vienna now is operating under a provisory government approved by the Russian occupation authorities.

STRIKES IN OHIO FACE SHOWDOWN

Seizure of Goodyear Plants by Government Looms

By The Associated Press
Government seizure of the five strike-bound Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plants in Akron appeared imminent Monday unless the 16,700 employees involved agree at a meeting this afternoon to go back to work.

Local officials of the CIO-United Rubber Workers were to report to the membership of a National War Labor Board hearing in Washington yesterday at which they refused to recommend ending the eight-day-old strike.

Ignoring pleas of labor, industry and public members of the board, local URW President C. V. Wheeler told the WLB, "I cannot go back to Akron and recommend that the people go back to work under present conditions."

Asserting "this is the first time that union leaders have failed to step up to their responsibilities," Dr. George W. Taylor, board chairman, expressed hope the union yet would terminate the stoppage.

URW officials reiterated previous refusals to recommend a return to work despite assurances by the board that action on the grievance would be speeded as much as possible under "orderly procedure."

The union leaders, subpoenaed to the hearing after refusing to appear before the board Saturday, insisted the company provoked the strike by failing to adhere to WLB directives for settlement of grievances.

Max Johnston, counsel for the URW, charged the company "chiseled on rates," and claimed it had not used its present productive capacity for more than a year. Dr. Taylor said the "Navy had informed the board of its heavy duty tires, aircraft tires and refueling hoses made by this plant."

The WLB head also read a letter from Brig. Gen. Edward S. Greenbaum of the War Department which claimed the stoppage (Please Turn to Page Two)

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Clinton P. Anderson today forecast more meat for the nation's dinner table if the Senate goes along with new slaughtering rules written by the House into legislation extending price controls. The Democrat who moves next Monday into sweeping control over food as Secretary of Agriculture said the change "hands me a weapon to deal with the black market in meat and to channel more meat to the dinner table."

Anderson declined to discuss another House amendment designed to give him even greater authority, including veto power over OPA price and rationing orders.

Both were adopted Saturday before the House approved a one- (Please Turn to Page Six)

New OPA Battle Looms in Congress

House Committee Approval of Appropriations Expected To Set Off Fireworks Over Wartime Control Agency—Funds For Variety of Other Functions Recommended

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—The House Appropriations Committee laid the groundwork for a new Congressional fight over OPA today by recommending a $174,500,000 budget for the agency for the coming fiscal year.

Legislation to give OPA another year of life passed the House Saturday afternoon after a brisk battle and is before the Senate for action on amendments.

The OPA fund, $6,000,000 below budget estimates, was included in a $3,134,031,456 deficiency supply bill which also contained $1,975,000,000 for lend-lease, $753,769,000 for the Navy and $16,654,860 to finance a Treasury Department drive against tax dodgers. Smaller amounts were included for more than a score of other agencies whose previously allotted appropriations were inadequate.

The bill, $17,854,173 below budget estimates, also continues available for another year an unexpended balance of $58,946,102 in the President's emergency fund. The committee boosted by $2,712,195 the agency's enforcement fund to finance a campaign against ration coupon counterfeiters. Inquiries by both the banking and (Please Turn to Page Six)

NINTH AIR FORCE TO GO TO JAPAN

SOME GROUPS TO LEAVE FOR STATES ON JULY 1

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 25.—(AP)—The U. S. Ninth Air Force, largest tactical air force in the world, is being broken up and some of its units will be sent to the Pacific to fight Japan.

Ninth Air Force headquarters also disclosed that three fighter bomber groups, six reconnaissance squadrons and several auxiliary units will leave for the United States July 1. These units have more than 13,000 flying and ground personnel. The men are being processed through the air division of the assembly area command at Reims. Other units will follow, the announcement said.

JAPS ABANDON OIL WELLS TO AUSTRALIAN INVADERS

MANILA, June 25.—(AP)—After doing their best to sabotage all oil wells, Japanese evidently are abandoning some of Borneo's richest petroleum areas to the invading Australians.

Australia's Ninth Division drove down the Borneo north coast to the Miri fields against slight opposition yesterday and already had taken Seria, potentially richest oil area in the British empire. At least 21 of Seria's 50 wells still were flaming from Japanese torches.

LEND-LEASE GOODS GOING TO SIBERIA

Shipments Resumed After German Surrender

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Lend-lease supplies—cut off to western Russia when Germany surrendered—are being shipped into Russian Siberia on the threshold of the Japanese war.

Leo T. Crowley, lend-lease administrator, told the house appropriations committee the Siberian shipments are being made at the request of U. S. military leaders. The committee today released the text of his testimony made earlier in the month.

Crowley disclosed the previously announced "review" of Russian lend-lease actually stopped all commitments not then en route to Russia or being loaded on ships. The Russians were given the choice of paying cash if they want previously-promised lend-lease supplies.

"There is, however, a program that is sponsored by our military under which we are supplying aid to Russia that is going to Siberia," Crowley testified.

BOY CHARGED WITH RAPE OF SIX YEAR OLD SISTER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 25.—(AP)—A 13-year-old boy pleaded innocent in district court today to a charge of "assault with intent to murder, and murder," in what Police Chief Raymond P. Gallagher described as the sex-slaving of his six-year-old sister.

The state contended Earl V. Laurie raped his sister, Hazel, and later locked her in a refrigerator where she suffocated.

Argentina Seen as Nazi Spearhead For Third War in Economic Survey

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—A Senate committee received State Department evidence today that Argentina has failed to eliminate a single case of suspected German economic penetration. Appearing before a military subcommittee studying Nazi plans for a third world war, Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton submitted documents summarizing results of a department campaign to stamp out Axis spearheads in Latin America by supplanting enemy control of business enterprises with friendly ownership. Clayton said in the case of Argentina there are 104 such spearheads "in which no action or non-elimination action was taken." Four others are in the process of elimination, he said, but none has been eliminated completely. Brazil has eliminated completely 48 listed spearheads, has 70 others in the process of elimination and has none in which no action has been taken. The spearheads, Clayton said, are "companies which are known centers of espionage or other aggression."

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Our conquest of Okinawa has been a grim and bloody business, and it furnishes ample warning the defeat of Japan calls for a maximum Allied effort—but I don't believe we necessarily have to regard this engagement as a preview of what it's going to take to knock out the Mikado's home islands.

Okinawa has confirmed in the harshest possible way many things we had encountered before. Outstanding is the truth that the Japanese fighting-man is a savage fanatic quite willing to sacrifice his life in suicidal conflict.

This fanaticism of the Jap warrior is largely religious—a belief that he becomes a god if he gives his life in battle for his Mikado, whom he regards as a divinity. We may find that the civilian population is like-minded and is prepared to resist invasion of the home-land to the death, but it strikes me that on this point we are getting into the realm of the unknown.

The Tokyo government boasts that every man, woman and child on the Japanese home islands will turn out and fight an invading force, and we must accept it as fact until we can demonstrate otherwise. However, I believe it's entirely possible the battle of Japan will develop along different lines.

We know what the Jap soldier will do when he is at close quarters with his enemy. He will fight to the death. But we don't know what he will do, or what the civilian population will do, when they are under constant fierce attack by a foe who isn't facing them but is striking from such a remote position they can't come to grips with him. It's one thing to fight hand-to-hand, and quite another to cower on the ground when lightning strikes about you from the heavens.

That's the way the battle of Japan is developing. The prelude to amphibious invasion is going to be a terrific aerial bombardment, the like of which the world never has seen.

General Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Forces, says that what Germany saw in the way of bombing was "only an amateurish effort compared to what Japan is going to get." He forecasts 2,000,000 tons of bombs will be let loose on the Mikado's home islands in the coming year, and that Japan will have little industry left by the coming autumn.

In short, what's going to hap-

FIRE DAMAGES COVERED BRIDGE WEST OF EBER

One of Two Such Spans Left In County Hit by Blaze Sunday

Fire, apparently starting from matches in the hands of children or a lighted cigaret, caused extensive damage to the western end of the old covered bridge across Paint Creek immediately west of Eber, Sunday afternoon, and only the prompt and efficient work of the fire department saved the entire structure from burning.

When firemen reached the scene the flames were blazing high above the old wooden bridge, and the pine boards forming a box at each side of the west end of the structure as well as some of the heavier side timbers, and much of the roof, were aflame.

Assistant Fire Chief Emil Wilson and Fireman Robert Creamer used the auxiliary equipment which carries 500 gallons of water, and they soon had the flames under control, but the supply of water was exhausted before fire in some of the heavier timbers, which were charred and still contained embers, could be extinguished.

Returning to this city the firemen tapped the first hydrant at the northern edge of the city, returned to the scene and carefully extinguished the embers.

The firemen received the call soon after 2:30 P. M. and it was nearly 6 P. M. before they returned to the department.

Some 20 feet of the roof and rafters were destroyed at the west end of the 90 foot structure, and some of the upright timbers were badly charred, but the main supports of the bridge were not damaged, and while the structure was closed temporarily, it will be reopened soon, it was indicated Monday, and necessary repairs made in the near future.

The fire had started at the base of the boxed-in timbers on the north side of the west end of the structure, had burned up the pine boards to the roof, across the roof and down the other side. Fifteen minutes more and the structure would have been doomed, Assistant Chief Wilson said.

The bridge is one of two long bridges of their kind in the county, the other being the Yankeetown bridge over Deer Creek.

pen to Japan is that his deluge of death and destruction will render her largely impotent before an invasion is attempted. The Germans cracked when Allied Bombers blasted the factories, supply centers and communications of the Reich and made it impossible to maintain the Hitlerian war machine or provide the civilian population with the necessities of life.

Tight little Japan, with her flimsily built cities, is far more vulnerable than was Germany. How long can she take it?

We shall get a fair idea of that as soon as our raids with 1,000 B-29s are running regularly. I think we have a right to believe we won't have to kill every Jap before we force capitulation.

Worth Watching
Recently published criticism of the hospital and medical service provided by the United States Veterans Administration, is bearing fruit by starting corrective measures.

The Administration suffers from the same ailment that afflicts most government bureaus that have been long established—dry rot. They run by "rule" and there is no incentive to keep up to date, for there is no competition to meet.

Dr. Jerome R. Head, a tuberculosis specialist and Associate Professor of Surgery at Northwestern University, in making public last year's recommendations of the Veterans Administration medical consultants, in the New York Times, said the Administration has not offered good careers to the physicians whom it employs. Young men entering the service should be rotated and given broad training and opportunity for post-graduate courses. Adequate libraries should be available and a follow-up system should be maintained to determine the end result of the medical treatment given patients.

Regarding tuberculosis, Dr. Head said the service should be integrated with the various county and state facilities, as it is much better that the patient be cared for close to his home where frequent check-ups can be made by the physician who has treated him through his illness. He said: "If the Administration is to assume responsibility for the care of tuberculosis, it should make elaborate nationwide arrangements for giving pneumothorax and checking those in whom the disease has been apparently arrested or cured."

"Many of the shortcomings of the Veterans Administration as it is today are inseparable from government medicine where doctors are made subservient to bureaucrats and politicians. . .," said Dr. Head. "What the government might do to medicine as a whole by making the service impersonal and perfunctory, is not a pleasant consideration."

Your Freedom or Your Shirt!

Pressure from the folks back home has resulted in a new meat program. War Mobilization and Reconversion Director Vinson, in consultation with the OPA, WFA, OES, the Army and the Defense Supplies Corporation, has made recommendations which revolve around increased subsidies, while price ceilings remain untouched.

How long this method of taxing people to pay for their food, can hold the lid on prices which the consumer should rightfully pay to meet the cost of production, remains to be seen. The Senate Agricultural Committee, in its report on the meat situation and the government agencies handling the same, finds that the past policy of the agencies which discouraged the feeding of cattle, has contributed to meat shortages, and states:

"The way to stimulate the feeder to place cattle on feed. . . until they are finished is to give him a price sufficient. . . to do the job and to earn a reasonable profit."

Hints on Etiquette
If a girl has a date with a young man who hasn't too much money to spend, and she suggests the program for the occasion, she should offer at least to pay her own way.
Today's Horoscope
Celebrating a birthday today means that you have an affable disposition, are optimistic of your future and impervious to failures. You should guard against a tendency to act without due thought and deliberation. Your emotions go deep and your love is sincere and steadfast. Try not to be too sensitive to criticism or the absence of affection in others. The rainbow hues of progress and constructive action may exhilarate you under the current Venus vibrations. Cash spent on entertainment, clothes or home decorations may be well invested. This is a splendid chance for a shopping spree.

One-Minute Test Answers
1. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.
2. George Washington and James Madison.
3. Thomas Jefferson.
It will go with a government "planned economy." You can't long mix it and a free economy—one or the other must eventually give away.
Under a planned economy with bureaucratic control we will eventually lose our freedom of action; under free competition we might lose our shirt temporarily, but still have a chance to recover it. Higher subsidies are just another form of inflation via the tax route.

Common Sense
One of the most sensible outlines for a postwar policy to protect the United States from the menace of inflation has been presented by Harley L. Lutz, Professor of public finance of Princeton University. He says that a program that would do most to maintain confidence in the stability of purchasing power should embrace the following:

"1. A moderate budget financed on a cash basis. This would stop credit inflation at its source.
"2. Taxation at a level sufficient to cover the budget and to provide for some debt retirement. No country ever had a wild commodity price inflation while its budget was in balance and its debt was being reduced.
"3. Repeal of all legislation under which there can be any tinkering with the currency, such as further devaluation of the dollar, the issue of greenbacks, the dilution of bank reserves, and other inflationary devices.
"4. A green light to private enterprise to proceed with civilian production as promptly after the termination of war contracts as reconversion will permit. The early prospect of a reasonably adequate supply of goods will go far to prevent crowding and jostling to get them.
"5. A definite assurance that their liquid savings will not be evaporated by foolish public spending, borrowing, and further credit inflation will make the people much more disposed to walk than run to the exit."

eral Norman T. Kirk's office came out with the flat-footed announcement that "the progress of the Army nurse recruiting program has reached such a favorable stage that intensive recruitment measures are no longer necessary."
In other words, the War Department not only was abandoning any idea of a nurses' draft, but was having to relax its recruitment program to keep from getting more nurses than needed.
A few courageous souls in Congress had battled the War Department draft plan with the insistence that nurses would rally to the colors as soon as they realized the situation was becoming critical. They were thoroughly vindicated.
Rep. Frances P. Bolton, the congresswoman from Ohio, said "it was exceedingly gratifying to those of us who, because of strong statements of the War Department, voted for the draft legislation to find that our contention that the nursing profession would furnish an adequate number of nurses by the volunteer method once they were adequately informed of the need, has proved itself true."

What the public doesn't know generally is how the nurses answered that call, once they were really informed. In 1940, a year before Pearl Harbor, the Army Nurse Corps consisted of fewer than 1,000 nurses. In 1944, when War Department officials first began to view with alarm, approximately 42,300 were serving. Today the number is more than 53,700, with about 2,000 more voluntary applications on the waiting list.
In addition, there are 2,139 senior cadets serving with the Army.
This month the Cadet Nurse Corps will see nearly 3,000 graduated; 550 more in July; another 3,000 in August and in September a record total of 11,000.
There are other professions which have rallied nobly to the war cause, but few who have come through to date like the nurses.

WASHINGTON — There are some red faces these days over in the War Department and on Capitol Hill too. The Army Nurse Corps put them there.

It has been hardly more than a few weeks since War Department officials, particularly those in the Surgeon General's Office, were telling members of Congress that unless we drafted nurses for the Army our wounded would suffer immeasurably.

A good many congressmen were as sincere as could be in "viewing with alarm" the threatened shortage of nurses. In the House, some even voted for the draft who didn't believe that any single group should be spotted for a special draft. They just took the Army's word for it that the nurse shortage was critical.

Then, before the bill had made any real headway, the War Department started passing the word around. The pressure for a draft of nurses suddenly lightened.

Recognition of Skin Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.
OFTEN when a person is suffering from a skin disease, the condition may be associated directly or indirectly with some disorder affecting the internal parts of the body. The skin symptoms possibly may come on before other signs of these diseases, and in some instances may even be so severe as to hide the underlying disease.
It is important that these facts be recognized, according to Doctor A. Benson Cannon, of Columbia University, for otherwise the skin condition may be treated and the underlying disorder completely neglected. Thus, naturally the best results in treatment cannot be obtained.
Among the internal diseases that may produce skin disorders is diabetes. There are three skin disorders which may be produced by diabetes. These three diseases are known as necrobiosis lipodica diabetorum, xanthoma, and scleroderma, according to Doctor Cannon.

These three conditions may often appear before sugar is found in the urine. The presence of sugar in the urine is one of the early diagnostic signs of diabetes.
Necrobiosis lipodica is more common in woman than in men. The rash usually occurs on the arms and legs in firm, round or oval glistening swellings like pimples which are yellow in color, but often with a pink tinge.
Xanthoma occurs on the backs of the arms, on the palms and soles, in the form of yellow or brown itching pimples, lumps or patches. The entire skin is often excessively dry and scaly.
In scleroderma there are shiny, tan or red swellings, while the skin is thickened and hardened.

Sugar in Blood
When any of these conditions occur, it is important that the amount of sugar in the blood be determined, and the urine carefully tested for the presence of sugar to see if the conditions are the result of the diabetes. If so, the diabetes must be treated with diet and injections of insulin.
Boils and carbuncles occur most often in patients who are physically ill and below par.
In order to prevent boils and carbuncles, it is important that the patient's general health be improved, that infections in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses and elsewhere in the body be searched for and eliminated if possible.
Sulfonamide drugs and penicillin are effective in treating boils and carbuncles.

Pimples and Swelling
Another skin disorder which may be due to underlying disturbances is one known as erythema multiforme. In this skin condition there are pimples and large swellings on the skin. It is thought that this disorder may be due to infections in the teeth, tonsils or sinuses, leukemia, sensitivity to drugs, or to poisoning (toxemia of pregnancy). Of course, when it occurs, an attempt should be made to find the cause so that effective treatment to eliminate it may be carried out.
Following childbirth, a rash of the breasts may develop. This condition may be due to over-sensitivity or allergy to local irritation or infection. The skin becomes red, scaly, covered with crusts and cracked. This disorder is aided as is any other form of eczema, with soothing preparations and an attempt to find the substances to which the patient is sensitive, so that they may be eliminated from contact with the patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. D.—Is it harmful to drink milk with a pinch of soda added to it?
Answer:—There is no harm in this practice if not too much soda is used. Excessive use of soda may lead to a condition known as alkalosis in which there is too much alkali in the blood and tissues.

Anyways, we have the 1944 "War Mobilization and Reconversion Act." Mr. Justice Byrnes, the first Director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, gave way to Fred Vinson. An Advisory Board of twelve members was named by the President and the Senate confirmed. I have little idea how far the Advisory Board's reconversion plans have progressed. In a way I'm glad I don't, because I doubt if I could understand the intricate scope of the problem.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, speaking as Administrator of Re-training and Re-Employment, gave a talk in New York City before the Academy of Political Science that was a wow. The job was created under the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act. I got a copy of the speech from the Office of War Information, and I wish every veteran and service man would read it. I'll confess that parts of it were too deep for me, but it shows that the government sure is going ahead with some big plans to help build and sustain millions of post-war private jobs. And it shows that apparently business and industry and the professions are increasingly working with the government.

Now along comes the American Legion. It has a program for maximum employment. Also it has a big organization which is spread all over the country. It intends to use its organization to put the plan over.
The American Legion's goal is 55 million postwar jobs. That is three million more than we have right now. The Legion says it can be done and goes on to show how it thinks it can be done.
The plan isn't at all complicated, though the details are too many to outline here. Its central argument is that the bulk of the new jobs must be found in the service and distribution field. To the American Legion this means sales, marketing, distribution, finance, service and retail and wholesale trade. But maybe I'm saving myself a lot of criticism. Because it seems as though every time the next guy or the next group or the next government-man announces a new after-war employment plan, the raspberries start to be handed. The hoots all seem to be various versions of either "He's just a dreamer" or "Wrong time to talk about re-employment. Don't you know the war's still on?"
A post-war employment plan appears to be a natural target. Everybody starts to shoot at it at once. They talk only of why it won't work instead of trying to build up its good points.

Prince of the Pampas
LOIS EBY AND JOHN C. FLEMING
CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
TERRY FLED on through the darkness, for a time conscious of nothing but the urgency of leaving behind her the pressure of pain built up under the spell of the rhythmic pampas music.
She was breathless, the music only a faint whisper in the distance, when she finally slowed her rapid pace to a walk. She was a good half mile from the house, but still in the park which surrounded it. The air was heavy with the mixed fragrance she loved—the scents of thousands of trees, imported from the fabulous grounds, palms, camphor trees, magnolias, mimosa, elms, English copper beeches. The night breeze whispered among them, the moonlight sifted in exquisite patterns along the path before her.
"Terry Arnold, you're a silly fool!" she told herself fiercely. This kind of mooning was all right for 17-year olds—or 70-year olds. But she had no time for romancing. Especially the hopeless sentiments of the pampas song. It was that song that undermined her. She was sure of it now. She took deep breaths and clenched her fists.
Time had put it straight enough. Brooks didn't—and wouldn't ever know any woman was alive as long as he was engaged to Corinne. And he would not break that engagement. Therefore, she was only harming herself if she made the mistake of falling in love with him. She was welcome to stay here longer, long enough probably to finish her novel. That is what she should do. But there was no point in staying on at the estancia if she didn't keep studying her hero and heroine. And if she went on emotional binges like this when she saw them together, she could certainly not work.
The trick of it was getting back into balance. She argued with herself desperately. Even if she could have taken Brooks away from his fiancée, she wouldn't want it that way. She believed in a sort of kindness when it came to building one's happiness on the loss of another person. And even if there had been no barrier between them he still could not have loved her. She had nothing to bring him. No heritage of shared interests, no family name of importance to the scheme of his life, no knowledge of the problems of his career.
But here her heart rebelled. She knew something—perhaps more than Corinne—of politics in general. And she had learned more of his problems on the estancia than Corinne.
Impatiently she shrugged aside these ridiculous little hopes. Strange, the stubborn tenacity of the heart, throwing itself against the most impenetrable wall of logic!
Before her the path wound across a small bridge spanning a tree-shaded pool. She stopped at the center of the bridge and looked down into the tranquil depths of the water. It was that strange feeling of destiny that weakened her, she thought. That sense of having found the land that was hers. The feeling of kinship with these endless plains had stolen upon her as insidiously as her love for Brooks Kimberley.
Perhaps, she told herself, there WAS some strange enchantment in this country of space and spirit and only they went home because they had returned tickets. Well, Fitz would come soon. And he would take her back. And some day Argentina, and the pampas, and Windermere would be only names to her again. A smile of passing nostalgia, maybe for the emotions she had left scattered over the waving sea of the pampas. In the dark surface of the pool she could see the white contours of her evening dress. And as she watched it absently Raff's voice sounded at her elbow.
"Watching your reflection?"
She smiled, but didn't turn as he leaned over the rustic railing beside her.
"I'm leaving it," she said. "On dark nights, after I'm gone, it will rise out of the pool and walk through the trees, like Queen Mary's ghost through the castle. It will listen to the wind—the pampas wind—it will smell all the smells of the flowering flax fields and the jasmine and the paraiso trees. It will listen to the owls and the chajals. And I shall smile in my sleep in my pull-down apartment bed in New York."
She waited for his laugh. When it didn't come, she turned to look at him. He was watching her with a queer look of concentration which startled her.
"What's the matter, Raff?"
He smiled then, and said quietly. "Nothing. I was just thinking—you do like it here, don't you, Terry?"
"I guess I love it better than any place I've ever been," Terry said with wry honesty.
He took a long breath. "That ought to help."
Terry laughed. "Help what?" As she looked at him dwarfing the little bridge, she remembered that first morning in her hotel room in Buenos Aires, when she had opened her door to see him lounging there, so tall, so carefree. She had thought, "He's too handsome for any good." He was the same tonight, in his gaucho costume. In his black chiripa, poncho and large hat, with silver spurs on his boots and silver ornamented belt, he was a blond, a fearless giant.
He took her hand in his and flexed her fingers thoughtfully. "Help me," he grinned.
Terry waited, finally demanded with a touch of impatience, "Help you what?"
"What I'm trying to say is," Raff murmured, "why use a reflection in a pool to make you smile in your sleep? I mean—and don't take your hand away, because what I'm trying to say is proper in my country as well as yours—I don't want you to go. I like you, Terry. I've told everyone I was in love with you—and I'm beginning to think I wasn't joking. You do something to me. You must admit I've changed since you came down. I think you're the knowing. And I like it. It's queer, knowing anyone a couple of months and asking that person to marry you, but—"
"Marry you?" Until he had said the words, Terry couldn't believe he was actually working up to a proposal. In spite of Raff's carefree, giddy nature, he was more conservative about some formalities, more conscious of family and class than Brooks. As he went on, homely, quietly, telling her she needn't give her answer now but to consider it, her amazement continued. Then he left her, kissing her hand gently, and going back through the path toward the house, a slim, arrogant shadow.
Terry watched until he was out of sight, then she released the breath she found caught in her throat. She heard herself laughing. "So this is old man Destiny," she thought stabbed through her stunned mind. "I find the end of the world. I fall in love. I receive a proposal of marriage. All so ordered, all so neat, except for one insignificant detail: Destiny. Why couldn't you have made it the same man?"

Wilmington Girl To Marry Doctor In Bloomingburg

Of interest to their many friends in Fayette County is the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Dorothy Ann Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Curtis of Wilmington to Dr. Donald E. Mossbarger, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mossbarger, of Clarksburg.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ohio State University, having just received her degree from the School of Journalism in June. For the past year she has served as business manager of the Ohio State Lantern and was also active in the Browning Dramatic Society and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Dr. Mossbarger is a graduate of the College of Veterinary Medicine and was a member of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity and Alpha Psi, professional fraternity. He has established his practice in Bloomingburg.

Golden Rule Sunday School Class

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stephen were host and hostess to members of the Golden Rule Sunday school class of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church when they met at their attractive country home for the June meeting.

Kermit Boering was elected new treasurer of the class during a business meeting. Other business discussed at that time concerned a chicken supper to be sponsored by the class early in August.

A game was played and prizes went to Harold McConaughy and to Winona McConaughy. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Edwin C. McCoy

Tall, seven-branch candelabras flanked the living room mantelpiece which was decorated with bowls of white roses, lilies, and feathered while floor baskets of the same flowers flanked the candelabras filled with lighted cathedral tapers on Sunday afternoon, June 24, when the marriage ceremony uniting Miss Mary Kathryn Bush and Edwin C. McCoy was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bush, 629 Leesburg Avenue. Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated during the double ring ceremony as the hands of the clock approached four. The wedding was witnessed by invited relatives of the couple.

Preceding the nuptial exchange which was made before an improvised altar at the mantelpiece in the Bush residence living room, Miss Marian Osborn, soprano vocalist, and Mrs. Marian Gage, pianist, presented a program of appropriate numbers, both vocal and piano.

Miss Osborn sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile," and "Through the Years," accompanied by Mrs. Gage. Mrs. Gage played "Oh Promise Me," "Because," and "Oh Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the attractive bride approached the altar wearing a smartly tailored grey gabardine costume suit, trimmed with large silver buttons and fashioned with the new cut-away cardigan jacket. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses, tube roses, baby's breath and greenery which was tied with a satin bow. White accessories completed her wedding ensemble.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Charles Baldwin, who chose a grey and white print crepe frock with white applique trim at the neckline. She wore a corsage of pink roses and had white accessories.

Best man for the bridegroom was Donald Brandenburg, of this city.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Bush wore a navy blue summer sheer frock and wore white accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. McCoy chose a summer sheer frock in black and also had a corsage of gardenias.

Before the minister pronounced the benediction, at the end of the ceremony, Miss Osborn sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Mrs. Gage accompanied.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bush were host and hostess to an informal reception for the new Mr. and Mrs. McCoy who first cut the three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, which centered the bride's table. Other decorations were bowls of pink roses and greenery.

Miss Dorothy McCoy, sister of the bridegroom, presided at a silver coffee service while Misses Jean and Helen McCoy assisted during the serving of a varied assortment of delicacies.

After a short wedding trip, the newly-weds will reside with the bridegroom's parents near this city for a short time, until their newly-remodeled home on the Wilmington road is in readiness.

Mrs. McCoy, a graduate of Washington C. H. High School in 1943, has resigned her position of bookkeeper at the Nicki Shop.

Eagles Keep Slate Clean; And Jinx Dogs Good Hope

The Eagles kept their slate clean, Sabina's boys climbed into second place and tough luck continued to dog the Good Hope team in Sunday's fifth round of baseball games in the Tri-County League.

With Lefty Wackman turning on the heat, the Eagles racked up a 6 to 0 shutout over the Jeffersonville outfit at Wilson Field here behind his 2-hit pitching. The youthful southpaw not only was the master of the visiting batters, but also managed to smack out three of the Eagles' hits in his four times up.

All the hitting for the Eagles was done by five players. Bentley, a Jeffersonville boy, got a triple and Cahill a double for the only really long smacks of the day.

Jeffersonville's encouragement came from the fast fielding where the combination of Sharrett, Mason, Brakelield pulled two double

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Professional tennis, which hardly rates as a big time sport these days although there'll be a tournament right in Manhattan this week, is trying to get away from the thing that gave the game its biggest publicity . . . That feature is the court "tours" which lured such players as Bill Tilden, Don Budge, Fred Perry and Frank Kovacs into the pro field . . . Welby Van Horn, a transplanted Californian with a southern accent who now rates as America's No. 1 pro tennis player, figures these barnstorming affairs did the game more harm than good because the competitive element became lost in the shuffle . . . "What were we after now," the young Atlanta, Ga., pro explains, "is a tournament schedule like the professional golfers have—say 30 events a year—with enough prize money that all the players could make a decent living."

Reds Split Doubleheader As Sorry Home Stay Ended

By JOE REICHLER
By The Associated Press.

Southpaw Hal Newhouse of the Detroit Tigers has a chance to become the major league's first 30-game winner in 11 years. Not since Dizzy Dean won 30 for the 1934 St. Louis Cardinals has a big league hurler reached that figure. Bob Grove, while with the Philadelphia Athletics, was the last American leaguer to reach the 30 victory mark, rolling up 31 in 1931.

Newhouse gained his 11th triumph of the season yesterday as the Bengals retained their game and a half first place lead over the New York Yankees by taking the second game of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns 5-1 and 4-3.

The Yankees remained on the heels of the Tigers by sweeping a doubleheader from Philadelphia 13-5 and 6-3 before 35,272 fans, extending the Athletics' losing streak to seven straight.

Brooklyn's Dodgers ran up an eight game winning streak before they were finally stopped by the Boston Braves in the second game of a doubleheader. The Dodgers won the opener 9-6 and batted in the nightcap 3-1, to retain their three-and-a-half game lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals who split with the Chicago Cubs, winning the opener 8-2 and dropping the nightcap 6-3.

Don Grate May Go into Big League

Don Grate, the lanky Greenfield boy who was such a thorn in the side of WHS Blue Lion football teams in the years just about the start of the war, today is in Philadelphia where he is expected to sign a contract to pitch for the Phillies.

Ernie Krajnik, a Phillies scout, said Grate had accepted the club's offer but he did not disclose the terms. It is known that several major league teams have had their eyes on Don ever since he broke into the big time college sports picture as a captain and forward of the Ohio State Basketball team and pitcher of the baseball team. In addition to his fast ball to which he can apply some effective curves, Grate made his presence felt at the plate.

Haiti showed 25 complete eliminations, Chile 22 and Ecuador 19. Clayton said:

"It seems a safe prediction . . . to say that German economic and political penetration in this hemisphere has, for the most part, been dealt a blow from which it will probably not recover; and that the prospects are reasonably bright for the substantial elimination of Axis spearhead firms even in the areas where they still survive."

"What we do have to worry about are those persons who may be hiding Nazi loot or flight capital, and about the control of German investments in all of the republics," he added.

Churchill will be opposed in his own constituency by a Northampton farmer, Alexander Hancock, not regarded as a serious contender by most conservatives.

POET'S CORNER

PEACE FOR WEARY NATIONS

The earth vibrates with kindling joy.
Tidings of peace abound;
"The war in Europe's at an end"
Resounds the wide world round.

The hopes and fears of trying years
Stand justified today;
The monstrous beast with blood red claws
Now dies the beastly way.

The dark'ning night that plunged the world
In black abyss of woe,
Has turned to great red rose of dawn
Where fires of justice glow.

From sea to sea rejoicing throngs
Thank God for V-E day;
And kings and statesmen round the world
Exult in freedom's way.

While songs abound and marching bands
Help swell the joyous tide,
We never can forget the price—
The brave men who have died.

We'll pause amid exultant joy
In homage to these men:
And think of those whose dreams
Have died.

We'll guard our freedom and our shores
A heritage divine;
We'll hold in trust this costly gift—
Memorial sublime.

—Rev. W. H. Wilson

THEIR KING OF KINGS

The Night had been cold and dreary
On a soil so European
May had dropped by the wayside
Their sacrifice supreme
A gentle voice was calling
So tender and serene
Come with me queens of battle
And I will be your King

They shivered at the blasted night
They had heard the cannons roar
They had given up their precious life
Which now they had no more
But from out the wide blue yonder
Came a voice of splendid theme
Come with me my queens of battle
And I will be your King.

And now the dawn is breaking
And the homeward move begun
But ye are not forgotten
No, not a single one
Ye have given life for humanity
Ye have done a blessed thing
So come with me my fallen ones
And I will be your King

I will take Ye up to heaven
In my home up in the sky
And we shall live together
In a peaceful by and bye
Ye shall live again in luxury
A life so pure and clean
So come with me good servants
And let me be your King.

—Pfc. Paul A. Smalley.

SAMUEL CARRICK DIES SUDDENLY EARLY SUNDAY

Wealthy Coal Mine Owner Also Owned Farm in This County

Samuel Carrick, 60, wealthy coal mine owner who owned the former Coffman farm a mile west of New Holland where he had many blooded horses and other livestock, died suddenly at Eucor Hotel, Magnetic Spring, Sunday at 2 A. M., death being due to a heart attack.

Mr. Carrick was president of the Concord Coal Co., with main offices in Zanesville, and made his home at the Clairdon Hotel in Zanesville, although he spent part of the time at his farm on North Fork of Paint Creek west of New Holland where he was preparing to build a $35,000 horse barn and other farm buildings.

His line of blooded horses were chiefly trotters and pacers, as well as a few runners, and one animal, Concord, was to have been entered in the next Kentucky Derby, it is understood.

The Concord Coal Co. consisted of several companies combined under the one direction, and chiefly engaged in strip mining in eastern Ohio.

The Fickner Funeral Home, in Westerville, has charge of the funeral plans, which have not been announced.

A son and a daughter survive.

CPL. HIMMELSPACH IN AIR PHOTO UNIT

Pictures Aid in Victory Over Germany

(Special to the Record-Herald) CHALGROVE, OXFORDSHIRE, ENGLAND — The vast scale and importance of photographic reconnaissance employed by the Eighth Air Force in the air war against Germany is revealed in the hitherto unpublished records of the Seventh Photographic Reconnaissance Group. For which Cpl. Ralph M. Himmelspace of Zanesville and Washington C. H., Ohio, is a photo laboratory technician.

Since March 28, 1943, when Col. James Hall of Ft. Worth, Tex., then commanding the group, flew over Paris on the first American photo mission over German occupied Europe, the group's pilots, flying Spitfires and Lightnings, have made approximately 1,000,000 reconnaissance photographs covering nearly 3,000,000 square miles of enemy territory in Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Austria, Italy and Russia. The job required more than 360 miles of film nine inches in width.

From these photographic negative the group's laboratory produced nearly 5,000,000 prints for intelligence purposes.

Each photo aircraft carried from two to five large automatic aerial cameras, each capable of taking nine-inch square pictures on 100 to 200 foot rolls of film. Now under command of Col.

Delegates and pastors from 55 churches in the Columbus Presbytery are expected to attend the summer meeting of the Presbytery at the First Presbyterian Church here Tuesday at 9:30 A. M.

Dr. Ganse Little

Dr. Ganse Little, pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church in Columbus, will be the moderator of the meeting. Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the church here, announced. He holds the pastorate at the largest church in this Presbytery.

The meeting Tuesday is one of the four meetings held each year by the Presbytery in different churches in this area. Largely a business meeting, several special reports are to be given, including committees on united promotion, pensions, national missions, church extension, and social education and action. A report of the church's general assembly in Minneapolis also is to be given.

Abernethy said a large percentage of the possible delegates are expected to attend the meeting. He emphasized the session was not open only to delegates but is open to other Presbyterians and friends of the church. The meeting will be opened with a short worship service.

Dr. Little has held pastorates in Williamsport, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; and New York City before coming to Columbus. He attended Wabash College, Princeton Theological Seminary and took post-graduate work in the Union Theological Seminary at Columbia University.

MOSQUITO WAR NOW RAGING IN WASHINGTON C. H.

Cooperation of Citizens Is Asked by City Manager

The second battle in the city's war on mosquitoes today is underway. Walter L. Stambaugh, the city manager, said as he listed three ways residents can help rid the city of mosquitoes.

Those three ways are: "Don't allow any water to stand in tin cans, troughs, eave troughs or any place where it becomes stagnant, as this provides an excellent breeding place for mosquitoes."

"See that all weeds on your property are properly mowed, hauled away or burned."

"All owners of vacant lots are requested to mow all weeds on their lots as soon as possible to prevent further breeding of mosquitoes. We will expect you to comply with this request."

At the same time, city workers are oiling and cleaning catch basins, manholes and ponds where mosquitoes might breed, Stambaugh explained. He pointed out the city was attempting to destroy the breeding places as well as the mosquito itself.

CONDON CAMPBELLS TO LIVE IN TEXAS

Home Here Has Been Sold To Dr. W. H. Limes

Capt. and Mrs. H. Condon Campbell, Jr., have severed the last material ties with Washington C. H. and today are looking forward to the end of the war and a new home in Texas, probably Midland.

Capt. Campbell at one time operated four restaurants—now known as Donald Moore's, Doc's Drive-in, Bud's Restaurant (R. B. Tharp) and the B. & B. Lunch. He disposed of them, however.

GIVE IT A CHANCE TO HELP FEEL BETTER

You can help your bowels to act properly by making it a habit to move them at regular times every day. If an occasional attack of bowel sluggishness causes headache or temporary minor intestinal distress, give TOLSON No. 1 or 2 a chance to remove the waste matter accumulated in the bowels. Then see for yourself how much better you will feel. Caution: Use only as directed. Sold by DOWNTOWN DRUG STORE one by one, when he entered the service as a second lieutenant more than two years ago. After a special course in post exchange management, he was assigned to the AAF Base at Childress, Tex., and has been there ever since.

He was a member of the city school board when he entered the army.

When he came back to recuperate from an operation and visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Campbell, Sr., he sold his home on Broadway to Dr. W. H. Limes Saturday and returned Monday to Childress.

As he said goodbye to old friends, he said he and Mrs. Campbell were reluctant to leave his native Washington C. H. where they both grew up as children and where their son and two daughters were born. The decision was not made hastily, he said adding that they were influenced by the climate, which is particularly suited to his health, and opportunities that presented themselves for after the war.

Night Shift ON THE FOOD FRONT

THEY DID IT BEFORE— THEY CAN DO IT AGAIN

With Farmall Tractor Power

From the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard, worried farmers searched the skies for signs of clear weather, but the cold rains fell relentlessly.

For more than a month the seed should have been germinating in the warm soil. Millions of acres lay unplanted because the ground was too wet for preparation of the seed bed and too cold for germination of the seed.

Only a generation ago there could have been but one outcome—crop shortage and food scarcity. Nature allows scant time for planting when the warm sun waits till late May or June before drying the soggy soil. Horses are too slow and tire too quickly to get the job done then.

But the farmers remember May of 1943—only two years ago—when their fast, untiring tractors averted crop failure. Then, too, rains flooded the fields and the month was all but spent before they could go in on the land and plant.

In 1943, most farmers drove their tractors from dark to dark, and longer. Many planted around the clock, working in two or three shifts. They made one of the greatest crops in history.

In today's war-torn world—with hunger and disease already stalking many peoples—even one major crop failure could bring famine. This is why the sound of tractors and planting machinery was heard, day and night, from the Plains states to the Eastern seaboard—why headlights stabbed the darkness over the fields.

America's farmers are doing it again, in spite of an unprecedented combination of adverse circumstances—bad weather, shortages of machines and shortages of manpower. For the second time in three years, they are relying upon their tractor-powered machines to help rescue large areas of the world from catastrophe. More of these tractors are products of International Harvester than of any other company.
